Campaigners occupy Osney site

CITY HOMES ACTIVISTS TAKE OVER OLD POWER PLANT SITE

A GROUP of campaigners voicing their concerns against the housing crisis in Oxford have taken over a former power plant in the city.

The protestors, made up of tenants and residents living in Oxford, are planning to occupy the Old Power Station in Osney until Sunday.

They entered the building at around 4am last Sunday and starting today are using the space to host a 'House of the Commons' conference to the public to discuss solutions to housing problems in the city.

Protesters are unhappy with Oxford's status of having the highest house prices in relation to earnings in the United Kingdom.

By Adam Fhnn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Andy Edwards, a member of the Oxford Tenants Union and one of the protest organisers said: "There's a huge shortfall of affordable housing in the city and across the UK and a rising homelessness problem.

"It's not an uncommon sight seeing people sleeping rough and meanwhile there are buildings like the Old Power Station that are lying underused.

"What we're looking for is for landlords to be more responsible about the land and the buildings they occupy and to make them accessible for social and public benefit."

House of the Commons will see a programme of events taking place at the Old Power Station including talks and workshops for those concerned about the housing situation in Oxford.

And Oxford City Council leader Bob Price agreed with the sentiment of the protest, saying the authority is struggling to find land to build new houses on.

"I think they are right to highlight just how exorbitant the house prices and private rents are in Oxford," said Cllr Price.

"But it's not a very effective way of doing that really they would be far better off campaigning with the Labour party.

"We have to get real about the problem and tackle it by having some significant additions to the city in terms of extension, otherwise this housing crisis will just get worse and worse."

Mental health care workers in schools

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

MENTAL health professionals are to be placed in secondary schools across Oxfordshire in a bid to make sure pupils get extra psychological care

The scheme being piloted by the Oxford Health NHS Foundation Trust sees experts spend time every week in a designated school.

They would speak with children directly at school, as well as discussing with teachers which youngsters would benefit from psychological support

Dr Mina Fazel, a research fellow from Oxford University's Department of Psychiatry is part of the team that is developing the programme

She said: "Evidence shows that we need to start thinking about how to implement mental health services into schools and make them more accessible for young people

"This is about a specific worker going into specific school at a specific time each week to try and improve the way we work with schools to suit the young people if the kids want to be seen at school.

Dr Fazel continued. "This is going to be of benefit to all children and Oxford Health has been very committed to try and innovate in this area."

The initiative has been introduced at three schools in the county so far expanding to seven more in January and all 34 state-funded secondary schools in Oxfordshire within two years

One of those already taking part is The Cherwell School in Marston Ferry Road, Oxford.

Headteacher Paul James said "Mental health problems can cause great difficulties for young people and their families impacting many areas of their lives

"With this initiative introduced by Oxford Health NHS Trust and working with Dr Fazel and her team we now have a mental health professional working onsite and more closely with staff and students

"While it is still early days for this approach my colleagues report that it is already providing benefits for students who need this support.

Final phase of Southern Bypass work to start

THE contraflow around the outskirts of Oxford is set to move carriageways next week as work continues on the Southern Bypass

Road works will be moved overnight on October 15 and will signify the final phase of the continued resurfacing and repairs on the road

Oxfordshire County Council say the works which are a part of a new 'hamburger' style interchange at Kennington roundabout and traffic flow measures at Hinksey Hill is on schedule to be completed on track by the end of November

David Nimmo Smith, cabinet member for Transport said "I am sure that people will be pleased to see that the work is now entering the final phase, and that we are on track to hit the November completion date

"The change to the contraflow should not bring any further delays but, as always, we are urging people to plan their journeys in advance and keep up to date with the latest traffic and travel news"

Improvements at the Kennington and Hinksey Hill roundabouts are part of the Oxford and Oxfordshire City Deal with £6million of funding being invested in the project

The county council says more than 40 people have been working on the Southern Bypass which is used by 90,000 vehicles a day

Work also begins on London Road in Oxford on Monday October 13

Rapist of two girls jailed

A MAN from Oxford has been jailed for 13 and a half years for sex offences against two teenage girls

Craig Preston, 30, of Bulan Road Oxford, was sentenced on Monday October 6 after being found guilty by jury at Oxford Crown Court on August 18

Preston was found guilty of two counts of rape of a girl under 13 one count of attempted rape of a female under 16 and six counts of indecent assault on a girl under the age of 14

The offences took place between July 1998 and December 2013 in Marcham

He was sentenced to 10 years in prison for each count of rape and one to two years in prison for each of the indecent assaults which will run concurrently and a further three and half years for attempted rape Investigating officer, Det Con Elaine Durham, said "The victims have been very brave in speaking out and proceeding with a police investigation.

"The length of this sentence reflects the seriousness of the crimes committed.

He added "Thames Valley Police will always take allegations of this nature seriously and conduct a thorough investigation and I hope that this conviction will encourage other victims to come forward with confidence"

Cash boost for nature reserve

OXFORD S Iffley Mead ows is set to benefit from almost £15 000 of funding to help restore 27 hectares of meadow habitat at the nature reserve

The Iffley Meadows Biodi versity Improvement Project will receive £16 874 from environmental charity SITA Trust to help preserve thousands of snake s-head fritillary plants

Money will be also used by the Berks Bucks and Oxon Wildlife Trust (BBOWT) to install drainage channels at the reserve to combat flooding

Neil Clennel BBOWT's head of conservation and education for Oxfordshire said "The grant will enable BBOWT to do so much more for all the wildlife on these important floodplain meadows

"The summer flooding of Iffley Meadows in 2007 caused the land to become waterlogged and prevented BBOWT from looking after this fragile habitat.

"Since then, we re-established the annual summer hay cut and grazing which resulted in the record count of 84 100 snake s-head fritillaries this spring on one area of the reserve"

Marek Gordon CEO of SITA Trust added "Our panel of biodiversity experts were keen on this project, which clearly focuses on a habitat and species which is scarce in the south east.

"The project should remedy the current problems of lack of grazing and ensure an annual hay cut is possible so that the population of snake s-head fritillary plants here is fully protected"

War stone would 'clutter' square

• Bonn Square the proposed site for a memorial to soldiers who fought in the Spanish Civil War

A MEMORIAL to volunteers who fought in the Spanish Civil War would be visually intrusive' and clutter Bonn Square, council officers have ruled

As the Oxfordshire Guardian went to print last night Oxford city councillors were expected to reject an application to install the stone memorial at a meeting at Oxford Town Hall, St Aldate's

It was recommended for refusal by council officers for being too big and intrusive

Twenty eight volunteers from Oxford and the surrounding area went to Spain to fight in the war from 1936 to 1939, seven of whom died

The International Brigades Memorial Trust (IBMT) wants to put up a granite stone at the top of the square to remember their sacrifice

The report, signed by contact officer Felicity Byrne said there is "already the beginning of a cumulative effect cluttering what should be an open space" and agreeing to the project would "set an unfortunate precedent"

It added. "Comments are made purely on planning grounds and not against the principle of honouring our servicemen and women

"However the proposed development would be harmful to the character and appearance of Bonn Square"

The stone would measure two metres in height one metre wide 30cm deep and be installed 60cm away from 1 New Inn Hall Street

Vice chair of the West Area Planning Committee, Michael Gotch said. If the committee refuses it it may well be on the basis of its size and that would suggest even at Bonn Square there might be room for a plaque or something more modest in size

Historians regard the Spanish Civil War as an important prelude to the Second World War when army generals rebelled against the elected government of the Spanish Republic

General Franco declared victory for the rebels 75 years ago on April 1 1939 and remained Spain s dictator until his death in 1975

Cllr Gotch said he was unsure how the committee would vote.

Speaking before the meeting, he added I need to go to Bonn Square and see what I think

"Whilst this particular application is recommended for refusal it could be approved

"The memorial is the size of a single bed and it has got to be right

"Bonn Square was rebuilt and redesigned and we have got to be very careful with what we do"

The current memorial in the middle of Bonn Square was put up in 1900 in memory of soldiers who died in a 1897 to 1898 battle against rebel tribes in British India

Movie star George buys £5m mansion

By Jack Johnson
jack.johnson@newspapers.co.uk

HOLLYWOOD heartthrob George Clooney and his new wife have bought a mansion alongside the River Thames in South Oxfordshire.

The O Brother Where Art Thou and The Descendants star, 53, married lawyer Amal Alamuddin in Venice last week.

And on Monday it was revealed he and his British-Lebanese wife splashed out on a mansion thought to cost £5million near Henley.

Mrs Clooney knows the county well after graduating from Oxford University with a law degree in 2000.

Mayor of Henley Martin Akehurst says the news puts the town "even more on the map".

Cllr Akehurst added: "He obviously shows excellent taste.

"I have been in Henley for 35 years and I love it to death.

"Everybody knows Henley for the regatta and it is known worldwide.

"I am absolutely delighted he has come to this area. An excellent choice on his part."

Deputy Mayor of Henley Jennifer Wood said the couple's arrival was great news and joked: "I felt very betrayed when he married another woman."

She continued: "I am sure we will all be delighted if we see them about in Henley, it would be fantastic.

"George Clooney is absolutely gorgeous and we are honoured that he has chosen Henley but not surprised, because why would he not?

"I have lived in a lot of places and Henley is the friendliest of them all.

"I am sure they will be made very welcome and I hope they will be very happy here."

Mr Clooney recently starred in 'Gravity', which won seven Oscars, two BAFTAs and a Golden Globe Award.

Tug-of-war raises money for charity

• Firefighters take on Bicester Rugby Club at a tug-of-war outside the Launton Road Aldi store

SHOPPERS in Bicester took on a team of rugby players in a tug of war on Saturday to raise money for children's charity Oxfordshire Playbus.

Visitors to the Aldi supermarket in Launton Road challenged players from Bicester Rugby Club in exchange for a donation to the charity with £150 being raised in total.

Alice Traish, store operations area manager for Aldi Bicester, said: "We are delighted that so many people from the local community got involved and took on the rugby players.

"As a sponsor of Bicester Rugby Club, we asked them to get involved as a bit of fun while also helping to raise money for a really good cause."

One of the groups that took on the rugby club was a team of firefighters from Bicester fire station.

Station manager Gary D'Anger said: "Saturday was great fun and we're glad we could be part of such a good fundraiser in the local community.

"The tug of war definitely turned a few heads and it was great to have Aldi shoppers join in the competition and help raise money for a good cause," he added.

Walkers step out for charity hike

By Adam Flinn
adam.flinn@newsquest.co.uk

A CHARITY hike which saw more than 100 people walk a 10 kilometre route on Saturday is expected to raise around £10 000 for the Sue Ryder hospice.

The Starlight Hike fundraising walk began at the Sue Ryder hospice in Nettlebed with actor Simon Williams known for his role as James Bellamy in period drama Upstairs Downstairs waving the walkers off.

They set off from the Nettlebed hospice at 3pm walking to a circular route through woodland countryside and local roads before arriving back

The quickest walkers were able to complete the course in just under an hour and a half

Debbie Atkins a Nordic walking instructor and personal trainer from Swallowfield in Berkshire was one of the first four walkers to complete the course

She said "It was a beautiful route with a great variety of scenery and the sun shone for us

"I didn't know the man I was walking with at the start but I was teaching him Nordic walking along the route

"What I thought was particularly lovely was that the route catered for all levels of walkers"

Other teams that took part included the Onesie Wanderers a group of girls from Queen Anne's School in Caversham that raised £1 000 by completing the course in the outfits

Pru Sly a Sue Ryder fundraiser who organised the event said. "We are really pleased with the day

"Despite the dreadful rain in the morning people turned up ready to have a great time and were rewarded with a fabulous sunny afternoon.

We were so impressed with the efforts people went to with their fundraising to make the event a real success and we look forward to repeating it again next year

Homes approved

BICESTER A development of 46 homes to be built in South West Bicester was given planning permission by Cherwell District Council last Thursday

Houses will be built at the site near Middleton Stoney Road, forming part of a larger 1,585 home development that was given the go ahead by the council in 2008

Michael Gibbard, Cherwell council's lead member for planning, said "The development will not cause harm to the locality or impact on the local infrastructure"

The Real Deal

OXFORD Antiques expert and television presenter David Dickinson will be in Oxford on Saturday as part of filming for his show Dickinson's Real Deal

Members of the public can bring along their antiques to the Ferry Leisure Centre in Summertown to sell to the dealers, or choose to sell it at auction instead

Admission is free, and the event is running at the centre from 9am to 5pm.

House fire

KINGHAM A family managed to escape unharmed after their house caught fire on Saturday evening

Crews were called at around 6.45pm to the house on New Road and were able to bring it under control

They believe the fire started in the loft

The Red Cross supported the family after the fire, whilst salvage operations and sheeting up adjoining properties were carried out by firefighters

Designs are a winner

VISITORS to the Eynsham Day Centre have had their picture designs chosen to feature in an art trail being created next to Wharf Stream in the village.

A competition was set up by West Oxfordshire District Council for residents to submit artistic designs that could be carved on to oak posts along the newly-developed Wharf Stream Way trail.

Users of the day centre produced drawings during their weekly meetings working with artist Alice Walker to create nature themes designs that would be suitable for carving.

Bryan Duffield 79 who goes to the day centre was one of those who had his design chosen for the trail.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

He said "I've always been a keen wildlife enthusiast and remember wading in ponds as a child.

"As I've grown older I've taken to visiting local nature reserves instead so I took my inspiration from local woodland animals."

Oxfordshire carver Rodes Irving is now working to create the designs on five foot tall oak markers which will be installed during the autumn.

The trail is a joint project by the district council and Eynsham Parish Council to create the mile-long route, linking Eynsham to the River Thames.

It has been funded by money secured by the district council under planning rules from the nearby housing development of Swinford Green, along with a grant from the Trust for Oxfordshire's Environment.

Warwick Robinson the district council's cabinet member with responsibility for public art was thrilled with the winning designs.

He said: "It is pleasing to see the community involvement and the designs for the way markers are very fitting.

"This project not only helps to recognise the heritage of Eynsham and its surrounding area but also provides a route to be used for many years to come."

Jane Titchener
Mayor of Wallingford

AS I sit to write this I have been reflecting on some of the wonderful events that I have been lucky enough to attend since my last update.

I was a guest at the Duke of Gloucester's visit to CABI (Commonwealth Agricultural Bureau International) in recognition of their work developing organic solutions for agricultural pests and diseases. I was able to reflect on how lucky we are to have so many businesses and organisations in South Oxfordshire ensuring that our local economy continues to grow and thrive.

I was honoured to be asked to present campaign and long service medals to some of the service personnel based at RAF Benson. It was fantastic to be able to share the event with them and their families and to say thank you for the work that they do.

It would be remiss of me not to mention the moving ceremony at RAF Benson to disband 78 Squadron as they handed over operational command of the Merlin helicopters to the Royal Navy. This was a unique handover, not just between squadrons but between services. The ceremony was a celebration of all that 78 Squadron has achieved and an opportunity to wish good luck to 846 Squadron as they move the Merlin Force into the Royal Navy.

Finally, it always gives me great pleasure to support the great work of our local events. I opened Bunkfest our annual Festival of music, dance, steam and beer, and both Wallingford Carnival and Wallingford Blues & Beer Festival have held their AGM and presentation evenings. Getting the opportunity to visit behind the scenes and meet those involved in putting these events together is a very humbling experience, everyone gives their time freely to put on these events for the benefit of our community. Well done and thank you to all involved.

Speaking of events the English Civil War Society will be holding a battle re-enactment and living history display in the town next summer. We really do need people to get involved in supporting the event, if you are interested please contact the town office on 01491 835373.

Student researchers given funding boost

MORE than £12million of funding has been given to Oxford University to support the research of 180 doctoral students into food security and animal health.

Government business secretary Vince Cable announced a national investment of £125m from the Biotechnology and Biological Sciences Research Council (BBSRC) last Friday of which the university has received £12.5m.

Money is being used over the next five years as part of the Oxford Interdisciplinary Bioscience Doctoral Training Partnership (DTP) to help the students work in the biological sciences.

They will investigate issues such as improving crop yields developing vaccines for animal diseases and tissue engineering for medicine.

A further £6m has been provided by the university colleges and partner organisations for the project.

Dr Gail Preston programme director of the DTP said: "We aim to create an environment in which students are exposed to a wide variety of different disciplines technologies and approaches across bioscience.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

"Through our DTP partners students will have access to cutting edge facilities at Pirbright, Oxford and the Harwell campus to investigate bioscience solutions.

"Students will be able to draw on expertise across the partnership to tackle important challenges such as the control of viral diseases of farm animals and of viruses that spread from animals to humans."

As part of training, students will complete two 12-week projects before deciding on their research.

They will also undertake a three-month internship to learn the skills required for a bioscience related career.

Dr Celia Caulcott, BBSRC executive director of innovation and skills, said: "Bioscience is having a massive impact in many aspects of our lives.

"BBSRC is paving the way for an explosion in new economic sectors and bioscience that will change the way we live our lives in the 21st century."

Dog rescued from badger sett

A BELOVED family dog had a lucky escape after he was rescued from a badger sett in Cuddesdon near Wheatley having spent two days trapped underground.

Jim a terrier crossbreed followed his playbuddy Lola down the hole on September 19 but didn't re-emerge.

His family were so anxious that they camped near to where he went missing for two nights in case he resurfaced.

But he was eventually rescued by the RSPCA, where he was found wedged in one of 18 underground holes.

RSPCA inspector Rachel Smith said: "The badger sett was one of the biggest I've seen, with a multitude of entry points.

"It was so large that we couldn't be sure exactly where Jim was.

"He was clearly in a state of shock and had to be dragged out by his owner John and myself.

"Despite having facial chest and leg wounds he appeared otherwise unhurt although he definitely smelt like he had spent 48 hours stuck down a badger hole!"

Ready? Set? Run the half marathon

SIR Roger Bannister is set to officially start the Oxford Half Marathon on Sunday 60 years after running the first ever sub-four minute mile in the city

Thousands of runners are expected to take part in this year's race which begins at the Kassam Stadium at 9.30am

And Sir Roger will be signing copies of his new book "Twin Tracks ahead of the race before setting the runners off on their journey

"The half marathon is a great event and will be a huge challenge for a lot of the runners taking part" said Sir Roger

"I'm really looking forward to seeing off all the runners and getting to be a part of this fantastic race"

The route takes participants through the Cowley MINI plant up Iffley Road into the city centre crossing Magdalen Bridge before returning along the Thames Trail path

Runners will also run a lap in Sir Roger's footsteps at the Iffley Road track where the four minute mile was broken back in May 1954

Half marathon race director Andrew Taylor added "It is an honour to have Sir Roger start the race this weekend.

"The story and magic of his achievement 60 years ago was an inspiration to me as a child and young athlete and I hope it captures the hearts and minds of our runners and spectators on race day

"Sir Roger will be there cheering on our thousands of runners as they make their way across the start line and we hope that our runners will do the same for him to honour his incredible achievement."

Six bands will play at various positions along the route during the race covering a range of genres to alternative rock to blues

Former race director Dave Box added "We have a fantastic variety of bands lined up this year who are certain to get our spectators on their feet dancing and our entrants running to the sound of the beat

"We hope that this will spur our runners on to the finish line helping them to achieve their own personal race goals, whatever they may be"

Leopard cub raised by Burford family

A BABY leopard cub that was abandoned by its mother at Cotswold Wildlife Park is making good progress after being hand-reared by the park's curator

Nimbus a clouded leopard cub, was found by keepers abandoned and cold on the exhibit floor after she was rejected by her mother at one day old

So curator Jamie Craig decided to take Nimbus to his home on the park site near Burford, where he and his family

By Adam Flinn
adam.flinn@newspapers.co.uk

hand reared the cub to give her the best chance of survival.

Nimbus will continue to be hand reared until she is weaned in a couple of weeks," said Jamie

"She will eventually move into her new home an enclosure adjoining the park's clouded leopard adults

She will remain there until she is big enough to be safely reintroduced to one of her elder siblings."

Nimbus is the first clouded leopard that Jamie has hand reared.

He has been teaching Nimbus the vital survival skills that she will need in order to integrate with leopards in the future

Jamie s children Niemi 10 and Jai 13 have also been helping with hand feeding and socialising with the cub with a selection of Nemi s cuddly toys being adopted by Nimbus at her new home.

Clouded leopards are found in the wild in southeast Asia with only 10 000 adults thought to be remaining in the wild

MD puts local company success story down to 'outstanding customer service'

THE New Driveway Company has recently expanded their product range to include resin bonded driveways Resin-bonding is an exciting new development in driveway installation Resin bonded driveways are made of gravel that is bonded together with a special resin which solidifies the gravel layer This creates a structure on par with that of block driveways, which also aids drainage and permeability

In the installation process, the resin is applied to either a sub layer of the driveway construction or onto a pre-existing solid surface such as tarmac or concrete The gravel is then applied on top of this resin in a scattercoat fashion to bond with the resin and harden The result is a solid attractive and modular driveway surface that can be applied atop an existing driveway or can be installed as an entirely new replacement.

The resin-bonding process can support a wide variety of different colours and types of gravel and aggregate. Our representatives can suggest and advise you on the best course of action for your property during the consultation phase

We have opened 2 London offices as part of planned expansion 1 in North London and the other in Wimbledon, South London. The head office is based at Milton Park in Abingdon Oxfordshire. We have a dedicated team of 6 full time operatives and we're planning to double this to 12 in the next 12 months

All staff have recently completed a two day centre of excellence training course on 'resin bound driveways This revolutionary product can be laid over the top of existing driveways and is a fantastic addition to our range

Quote from Darren Field Managing Director of The New Driveway Company "Our rapid growth is down to our people adding value at every opportunity

Together with our outstanding product range it's easy to see why The New Driveway Company is growing into such a recognised brand.

7.15 Live International Football England v San Marino (Kick off 7.45pm) Coverage of the Euro 2016 Group E qualifier at Wembley Stadium, where anyth ng other than a home win seems inconceivable. This is the second consecutive qualifying campaign in succession that Roy Hodgson s men have been drawn in the same group as the minnows, and they secured a 5-0 win when the teams met here in October 2012 on the road to Rzeil. A crowd of 85 654 was in attendance on that occasion and while that may not be matched tonight, interest in the national side is sure to have increased following their 2-0 win away to Switzerland last month. Adele's pianist performs first city show with band

TALENTED British pianist Neil Cowley will aim to make jaws drop when he and two fellow band members perform at the Evangelist Church in Oxford on Saturday October 11

Jazz pianist Cowley Evan Jenkins on drums and Rex Horan on bass formed the Neil Cowley Trio in 2005

The musician who is classically trained said: "Actually when I really think about it, I don't think the band has played in Oxford before so it's a double debut!"

The 41 year old has also played the piano for various big name UK artists including Adele on her albums 19 and 21

"I am very proud to be on albums like 21 by Adele for a number of reasons I think my pianistic style suited those records very well and captures a moment in pop history very nicely"

The group have released five albums with their latest album Touch and Flee being released in June of this year

"On the day we will be playing a half of entirely new music from our recent album Touch and Flee " he said

By James Richings
james @oxfordmailpapers.co.uk

"This will then be followed up with a second half of what we call our hits which should hopefully give everyone the chance to visit both ends of their emotional spectrum."

Cowley who performed a Shostakovich piano concerto aged 16 at Queen Elizabeth Hall has also won the BBC Jazz Album of the Year award back in 2007 for Displaced

The musician explained why he loves playing the instrument

"I'm better at conveying my feelings through my piano playing than any other instrument

"When playing in bands I have followed the advice of my father and laughed my way through the majority of life thus far"

The concert, which costs £15 to £20 starts at 3pm

It's a two man show

AFTER it's sell-out run on Broadway and four year stint in the West End, two-hander Irish play 'Stones In His Pockets' is heading to Oxford's New Theatre on Monday, October 13.

By James Richings
james.richings@oxfordmail.co.uk

The tragicomedy which has been seen by more than two million people was written in 1996 by actress and playwright Marie Jones.

The story circulates around two Irish friends Charlie Conlon (played by Stephen Jones) and Jake Quinn (played by Conor Delaney) who along with their entire town become extras in an up and coming Hollywood film set in County Kerry.

What happens next during the production could get you laughing and crying all the same time, through a powerful storyline.

Jones has only worked in the UK once before.

He told the Oxfordshire Guardian: "I'm really excited to see how UK audiences will respond.

"In every city in Ireland that we played the audience had their own unique reactions to the show, which always is interesting and surprising.

"'Stones In His Pockets' does on one hand seems like an Irish show, but on the other hand it has had major success on Broadway and the West End.

"The subject matter is universal so I'm confident that we will give people a great night out."

The production was put together by actor/director Ian McElhinney, husband to writer Marie Jones.

Jones added: "They are both lovely people so I was made to feel very comfortable by them straight away."

"Ian just encouraged me to do my thing during rehearsals.

"Marie and I met on the first day for a meet and greet, but after that I didn't see her again until the opening night.

"She obviously knows Ian will direct the play the right way, as he has done in the past, so she considers her work done and just comes along to enjoy the show."

The UK tour of 'Stones In His Pockets' started on September 8 at the Chelmsford Civic Centre, and will finish on November 22.

The production starts at 7.30pm.

Tickets cost between £10 and £23.40 for the one night-only show in the city's George Street.

Investors snap up homes at Bicester development

Property investors are showing sustained interest in The Garden Quarter a unique development of homes located on the site of the former Domestic Quarters for RAF Bicester where homes are being swiftly purchased off-plan

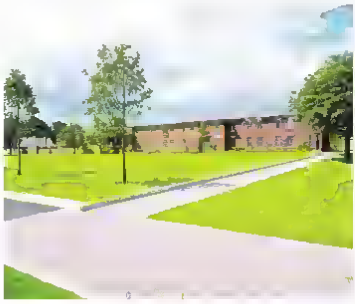
Built by multi-award winning heritage developer City & Country the second phase of The Garden Quarter offers a range of very individual apartments cottages and houses from the Art Deco buildings

Following the launch of this second phase of properties at the development earlier this year The Garden Quarter is now proving popular with would-be landlords attracted by the strong rental returns on offer

Helen Moore managing director of City & Country said "Since the second phase launched we have witnessed a steady stream of sales selling just over one property per week many of which have been off plan

"A significant number of these have been purchased due to their investment potential

"Currently landlords are seeing rental returns averaging five per cent and there is a consistent influx of new tenants attracted by the unique nature of the properties within their wonderful landscaped setting"



The development combines characterful and historic restoration properties with a range of new build homes that seamlessly blend into the existing vernacular of the historic buildings

The clever site design and layout of the development maximises space and light with buildings formally arranged in symmetrical patterns around formal squares and landscaped spaces

Maxine Allington of local agent Tobin Jones said "The Garden Quarter has proven very popular with investors we have a consistent number of new clients seeking to buy for rental purposes at the development

"The properties tend to be let to professionals or couples Tenancies are longer here than for average properties indicating that the atmosphere and designs are agreeable to the residents.

"Most tenancies are in excess of 12 months rather than the usual six months and since the development launched two years ago we have only had one tenant leave and that was due to a business move"

Features of the second phase properties include oak engineered flooring sanitary ware from Roca and Laufen brassware from Hansgrohe pre wired connections to Virgin Media and voice activated door entry (where applicable) to communal areas

The Garden Quarter has been a particular hit with professionals who are keen to enjoy the privacy that it offers

Bicester's excellent transport connections have also helped to attract commuters who work in Oxford and London

Maxine added "The Garden Quarter offers the style and atmosphere of an older character development but with new build finishes and facilities

"The proportions of each property are very pleasing and often one-bedroom homes rival similar two bedroom properties within Bicester for size"

Properties at The Garden Quarter benefit from an enviable location surrounded by superb countryside yet with fantastic road and rail links to local towns and larger cities

Nearby Bicester North station provides regular train services to London Marylebone with journey times from 48 minutes

Prices at The Garden Quarter start from £167,500

Top tips for protecting your home in the winter

As the days start to get shorter and the air a lot colder It's time to prepare your property for the worst of the weather

Far too often landlords and tenants leave homes uninhabited and unprepared Burst pipes, tragic water damage and expense repair bills are something that no one wants to be faced with as we venture towards a stress free end to the year

However there are small and often inexpensive tips you can employ to ensure you have a very wonderful winter season!

• Turn it Off!

If tenants are spending time away, make sure all outside taps are shut off. You should also drain away any standing water to avoid burst pipes

• Shut out the Cold ...

Keep all blinds and curtains inside closed to prevent any heat escaping through windows

• Don't Forget the Attic ...

Keep the hatch to your attic ajar as this will help to stop overhead pipes and tanks freezing

• Get it Foiled!

Put some kitchen foil behind your radiators as this will reflect heat back into your rooms

• Keep it Low ...

To protect your indoor pipes keep the central heating on low and leave internal doors open

• Gutted...

Don't let a faulty or broken gutter be the demise of your investment, check them to avoid broken gutters causing floods

• Check it

It is always worth checking your pipes for leaks or faults that could catch you by surprise

There are many plumbers who offer a winter checklist service that will not only give you and your tenant's peace of mind but could potentially save you thousands!

• Cat Litter Works Quicker ...

If you are planning to show your property to prospective tenants don't let the ice stop them from knocking at the door! Cat litter effectively clears a driveway without damaging your plants like salt

However if your home is prepared but your boiler isn't

• Check to see if the pilot light is on in your boiler If you do not see it, then follow instructions either displayed on or with your boiler to re-light it

• Check all switches are turned on and the fuse hasn't blown

• If your boiler still doesn't work it is recommended you use a trusted website to find a reliable local plumber to warm things up

By following the above tips you can ensure that this winter doesn't freeze your income!

Empress Court vs Reliance Way - Which one is best?

By Richard Goodwin

Let me share with you a rather odd story regarding two of my landlords who I have been speaking to this week

One has a one bedroom apartment in Empress Court and called me to discuss his next investment. He pointed to The Reliance Way development in Cowley as a possible location

Later that week another of my clients who owns a property in Reliance Way expressed and interest in securing a property in Empress Court

What are the chances?! I muttered to myself but if did get me thinking about these two giants of the lettings world and how they compare. My findings were interesting...

My client paid £236 000 in 2011 for his one-bed on Empress Court, in Oxford city centre. At the time the rent was £1 125 per calendar month which gave him a yield of 5 7 per cent

Fast forward to present day and the apartments are now going at £300 000 with the typical rent now at £1,250 per calendar month His yield now sits at five per cent and the property has appreciated by 21 34 per cent

My landlord who owns a two bedroom apartment on Reliance Way Cowley bought in 2011 for £249 950 commanding a rent of £1 050 per calendar month giving him a yield of five per cent

Moving on to present day his apartment would now fetch approximately £280 000 at a rent of £1 200 per calendar month with an annual yield at 5 1 per cent Its growth during this time is 10 74 per cent

An argument could be made for both They both command strong yields and both show good sustainability but in this head to head, the city centre prevails (just).

DRIVEWAY RENOVATION

We also provide a block driveway renovation service. If you have a driveway that's looking a little worse for wear and you don't want to go the whole way and replace it, simply give us a call and we can come and restore it to its former glory.

We employ a simple three stage renovation process when restoring old driveways: clean, sand and seal. The first stage is a straightforward cleaning of your driveway removing any accumulated grime and rejuvenating the paving. After this we sweep sand across your driveway to fill the grooves between the blocks restoring the evenness and uniformity of your driveway. Finally, when renovating non-permeable driveways we apply a waterproofing sealant, which aids and allows water runoff and drainage.

Rock it 'til you drop!

MUSICAL favourite 'Rock of Ages' is in town at the New Theatre from October 21 to 25

Written by Chris D'Arienzo, the audience will meet aspiring singer Sherrie Christian who travels to Los Angeles to pursue her dream.

In LA she runs into bartender Drew Boley and the two hit a rollercoaster journey of emotions to some classic 1980s tracks.

Cordelia Farnsworth, who plays Sherrie, said: "She is the best character I have had the chance to play.

"She combines naivety, feistiness, comedy and reality into one character and the songs are a joy to sing.

"This is a production I have had a lot of fun working on – for me, it's the best piece of musical theatre I have done.

"Rock of Ages is a fun and loud musical with classic 80s rock songs, a love story and a comedy rolled into one."

Farnsworth studied at Tring Park School for the Performing Arts for seven years before taking to the stage as a musical performer – but that wasn't always her route.

"I started off wanting to be a ballerina," she said.

"It was when I joined the National Youth Theatre that I really changed my mind.

"I was able to combine all the things I love – dancing, singing and acting – which meant that I had the best of both worlds.

"I would also love to take my career into television one day."

The 24-year old added: "I have never been to Oxford before, so I am very excited. I'm really looking forward to exploring the city!"

The show will run for a week, with seven performances showing in the five-day run.

Like the novel, 'Last Train to Oxford' explores the complications, ambiguities and ghastly problems that haunted the French born philosopher's later philosophy with the philosophical establishment at Oxford in the 1980s.
'Last Train to Oxford' co-written with Fred Dallmayr.
Professor Scheid said: "We're very excited about the performance which is taking place a mere ten years to the day after the death of Jacques Derrida.

The Miller of Mansfield is an 18th century Coaching Inn with luxury bedrooms recently taken on and owned by Mary and Nick Galer. It is nestled away in the heart of the idyllic village of Goring on Thames and overlooks rolling West Berkshire and South Oxfordshire countryside a stones throw from the river Thames. The Miller is open 7 days a week for eating, drinking and sleeping.

Nick and Mary have an extensive culinary and hospitality background and bring this knowledge to the Miller to create a very special and cosy atmosphere. The kitchen is at the heart of everything good about the Miller and Nick oversees the delivery of fine British ingredients and produce. The Miller atmosphere created by Mary and her team is always at the forefront of their service ethos. Nick and Mary oversee the team to ensure hospitable service is delivered to every customer.

> The key things that have enabled Nick to succeed at the Crown are his knowledge and passion for the product and the British food scene. I'm interested to see where he might take his creativity as he moves onto the next stage of his career.
> Heston Blumenthal

Mary and Nick have completed their first busy summer and are now looking forward to a winter where log fires, heart warming food and a cosy ambience are priority. They have just introduced a lunch menu Mon-Fri 2 courses £12.50 & 3 courses £15.00 and are currently changing their ALC menu in line with the seasons. Every Sunday they offer a Sunday Supper Club where a set main course and a drink is available for £12.50 (advertised on the website). They also hold a monthly Locals Night where a 5 course tasting menu is £20.00 and a wine flight is available for just £12.00.

> Despite only being open for 5 months, they are delighted that they just won 3rd place in Best Thames Local (Restaurant category)-the only place outside of London to make the top 10.

> Mary sets extremely high standards and with a sharp eye for detail and a natural ability to lead is always able to deliver. It is a rare talent to be able to offer a professional but also genuinely warm welcome to her guests.
> Matthew Tomkinson, Roux Scholar

Christmas is fast approaching and Mary & Nick are looking forward to accommodating family gatherings, friend reunions and corporate get togethers. Menus can be obtained by calling or emailing using the details below.

Toyota unveils style options with new second generation of its popular run-around

Street artists unleashed on Aygo

WHEN you buy a new car as an owner you want the car to stay immaculate.

You want to try and avoid any puddles put a cover over the car when it's raining and wear clean shoes to make sure no stains appear on the carpet.

You want your new car to be spotless

However as Toyota announced that the second generation Aygo will be released this year the Japanese car manufacturer has decided to be different

At this year's Paris Motor Show from October 4 to October 19 a trio of top street artists are using the second generation, as the canvas to create unique artwork at the French based exhibition

Starting each day with a plain white Aygo three French street artists Monsta, Stom500 and Ekiem will get to work covering the car's bodywork, windows and even wheels—with help from ideas pitched from visitors

The creative buzz is rooted in the Aygo's customisation options and its "go fun yourself" character

Toyota are claiming customers don't need to be artistically gifted to give their Aygo a distinctive look because they provide a wealth of colour and finish options for bodywork styling

To cater to that "want it now" feeling people have about their new cars, Toyota has set up a special centre in the UK to add the customisation features minimising the wait time

The new Aygo is one of Toyota's featured models at the Paris Motor Show alongside the hydrogen powered Fuel Cell Sedan and, making its world debut, the C-HR crossover concept.

There will be five different editions of it

They are the Aygo x base model the Aygo x play with Bluetooth connectivity and steering wheel controls, the Aygo x pression with silver alloys leather seats, multimedia system DAB Radio and rear view reversing camera the Aygo x cite special edition with 15" gloss black alloys and the Aygo x-clusive special edition with optional x-nav and Smart Entry and Start

Barren run does not concern Ferguson

ASSISTANT coach Matt Ferguson says he is not worried by London Welsh's dismal start to their Aviva Premiership campaign.

The Exiles were beaten 52-0 by Harlequins on Saturday away at Twickenham Stoop - a fifth consecutive defeat which has seen the concession of 249 points.

However Ferguson says it is far too early to be worried about the results and Welsh are fully focused on cutting out individual errors and being competitive for the full 80 minutes.

He said: "I'm not worried in the fact that we were all very clear from the outset about the challenge we had on our hands.

"We are just into October so it's not a case to panic and our aim is to control what we can control and put a performance together which we feel we are capable of.

"Once we've done that across the board and in all areas for 80 minutes then we will start to feel we're achieving something.

"At the moment the frustration is that we're not giving ourselves the best chance across the board."

Ferguson said last week's defeat at Harlequins left the squad hugely frustrated and insists the only way individual mistakes can be rectified is through hard work.

He added: "The squad is the most honest in terms of their reviews and it makes our lives easier as a coach when a player is prepared to stand up and say they need to improve across the board.

"It is refreshing for a coach to work with and then straight out on the field people are striving to do that and I think that is something that will stand us in good stead.

"There is no quick fix to it and once we cut out those errors I think the game time proves that from 60-70 and then through to the full 80 which we are all striving to do."

Welsh are bottom of the Aviva Premiership and face 11th-placed Newcastle Falcons at the Kassam Stadium on Saturday.

However Ferguson does not believe playing a side who are only a place above them in the table adds any further importance to the match.

"We could be playing Newcastle or Northampton it is the next game and that is important," he said.

"I don't think there is any real added significance because it is the team next to us.

"Every time we go out on to the pitch at the moment it is an important game and will continue to be every game we play in the Premiership."

Merritt praises prolific Yussuf

OXFORD City boss Justin Merritt says Adi Yussuf can be one of the best strikers in the Vanarama Conference North after he added a brace to his tally in Tuesday's 2-1 win over Stockport County.

Yussuf has scored nine goals in 13 appearances in all competitions so far this season while City lie third in the league table.

The 22-year-old former Leicester City trainee joined City in the summer and Merritt says there is more to come from his frontmen.

"We're delighted with his form," said Merritt.

"Any forward with those sort of statistics has to be pleased and there is more to come from him.

"He is in a good place but he feels he is only at three-quarters at the moment.

"I am looking for a lot more from him and I want him to be one of the top scorers in the league."

City face Solihull Moors at Marsh Lane on Saturday.

Browne urges Dragons to make chances count

FORWARD Peter Browne says London Welsh must take their chances if they are to survive in the Aviva Premiership.

The Exiles were hammered 52-0 by Harlequins last Saturday but they were not without their chances.

In the first half the visitors turned down several kickable penalties to go in search of tries but despite periods of sustained pressure inside the Quins 22 they repeatedly left empty handed.

Browne said: "We've got to be converting those chances.

"It was really tough.

"We put them under pressure but then a few missed tackles and they capitalised."

Welsh have now conceded 249 points in five games and are bottom of the table with one point.

Browne added: "We're a tight knit group we'll get tighter from this."

U'S DIG DEEP TO BEAT NEWPORT

Collins scores as head coach Appleton praises defensive resolve

By Jack Johnson
jack.johnson@taylornewspapers.co.uk

MICHAEL Appleton praised Oxford United's mental strength after his side beat Newport County 1-0 last Saturday despite being down to 10 men for over half an hour.

The only goal of the game came on 41 minutes when Michael Collins' freekick evaded everyone and nestled into the corner of the net.

However, United went down to 10 men on 55 minutes as Tyrone Barnett was shown a second yellow after innocuously catching Darren Jones off the ball.

But they held on to their lead with the returning Ryan Clarke and stand-in captain Johnny Mullins leading the way.

United moved up to 20th in Sky Bet League Two as a result and Appleton was delighted with his players' mentality.

He said: "I thought the performance showed the players that they can dig in when they need to and they showed resolve in the second half.

"It was a different side in terms of their mental resolve and I am very happy with it.

"It was a fantastic performance in the first half from an attacking point of view.

"We only got the one goal to show for it but luckily that was enough for us to hold on in the end."

United deserved their first half lead and, after creating countless opportunities, it could have been at least a three goal lead.

Barnett and Michael Raynes went close in the opening five minutes before the former fired wide with only Newport keeper Joe Day to beat.

However Collins' freekick gave United something to hold on to and they needed it.

Barnett deserved a booking for a late tackle on Ismail Yakubu just after the break but his second yellow seemed harsh as Jones went down after a coming together.

Newport went close through Joe Pigott, Mark Byrne and Chris Zebroski but United were relatively comfortable.

Appleton described referee Darren Sheldrake's decision to show Barnett a second yellow card as "diabolical".

He said: "I think we found ourselves in a position that we never should have been in."
